

AMATEUR BASEBALL—JESS WILLARD'S SPEED SURPRISES FIGHT WORLD—DIAMOND DOPE

JESS WILLARD SPEEDY; SURPRISE TO FANS

Exhibition Here Showed Cleverness Unsuspected in Big Fighter—Audience Pleased.

Jess Willard, heavyweight champion and the most popular pugilist in the world to-day, Saturday night gave a demonstration of the right-hand punch that won for him the laurels now adorning his curly head before 2000 frenzied fans at the National A. C. The cowboy received about $100 for his exhibition.

The Kansas boxed three rounds with Walter Monihan, of Los Angeles, one of his sparring partners who aided him in getting into condition for the Jack Johnson fight. Willard allowed Monihan to do most of the leading during the exhibition. The former was contented to block, side-step or make Walt miss his punches. Willard evidenced the fact that he was fast on his feet for a big fellow. During the second round Jess did not protect his body, leaving back on the ropes and allowing Monihan to beat a steady tattoo on his stomach until Walter became tired and clinched.

After about a minute and a half of light tagging in the third round, Tom light Willard's manager, who was at the ringside, shouted, "Watch for the punch that knocked out Johnson." Willard crossed a straight right-hand punch into the beautiful precision, and landed a smash on Monihan's jaw. The latter gave a jerking imitation of being knocked off his feet. He fell flat on his back.

Previous to the exhibition Jones made a short address, saying that as long as Willard is the heavyweight champion of the world he will never sign up Jess to fight a negro under any consideration. The big audience was delighted with the speech and showed their approval by great applause. The spectators yelled for a speech from Willard, but the big fellow only smiled and finally the fight settled down to see the cowboy in action.

The exhibition was followed by four good bouts. Tommy Welch knocked out John Jones in a few seconds before the bell in the second round. Buck Fleming fought a fast battle, with the former a winner. Frankie McManus gave a nifty exhibition in defeating Harry Diamond, and Bennie Kaufman surprised the crowd by outlasting Eddie Wagoner. The former was handicapped in weight, height and reach, but his speed made the aggressor during a greater part of the fight.

JESS WILLARD GETS $8000 FOR THREE DAYS' WORK

Throngs Greet World's Champion at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 12.—Jess Willard, champion heavyweight fighter of the world, was here for a three-day exhibition at the Boardwalk Pier yesterday afternoon. Willard made no speech, though called upon to do so. He said after the exhibition that he had cleared up $8000 in exhibitions in the last year.

IRON DUKE NOT TO RUN IN KENTUCKY DERBY

Valuable Colt, With the Finn, Held for Metropolitan Handicap. Iron Duke, the Finn, recently purchased by H. C. Hallenbeck from John A. Mander in Shreveport, arrived at the Hallenbeck farm, in Shreveport, on Saturday. Mander stood the long journey from Kentucky very comfortably, the training quarters in Louisville being much pleased at their condition and well prepared for their trip to their New York stable equipment. It is highly probable that either of the colts will be shipped back to Kentucky to all their early conditioning. Mr. Hallenbeck thinks highly of their ability and does not care to hurry their preparation for the 1915 season. He believes the Kentucky Derby of May 8 will be a trying race and does not care to have either of the colts run on such a task so early in the season. Both colts will be pointed for the Metropolitan Handicap and will be pointed for the Derby. He has 24 thoroughbreds under his care and will be in the market for more. H. C. Hallenbeck, while out of the city, is expected to return to the city in a few days. It is expected that the entire stable will be shipped to Belmont Park within a few weeks.

SCHOOL BALL TEAMS SHOWING GOOD FORM

Varsity and Fresh Nines Open Season Tomorrow—Catholic High Plays Northeast.

Today's Scholastic Schedule. Episcopal Academy at Central High School. Phila. Trade School at La Salle College. Frankford High School at Chestnut Hill.

The varsity and freshmen Scholastic Baseball League campaigns for 1915 will be inaugurated tomorrow afternoon with two games in the first-mentioned circuit and three matches in the younger organization.

Catholic High School's aggregation of leather-heavers will play Northeast High School's nine on the latter's field, 29th and Clearfield streets, and West Philadelphia High School will line up against Southern High School at 63d and Callowhill streets, in the varsity league matches. The freshmen games follow: Frankford High School, at Northeast High School; Germantown High School, at Central High School, and Southern High School, at West Philadelphia.

Unless Dunleavy, Catholic High School's first baseman, takes a brace and improves his play around the initial sack, Coach Jack Greer will place him on the bench and chose a regular player from other candidates out for the position. Donovan and Hannigan are showing up splendidly in their endeavor to make the opening berth and present indications point to the latter getting the place because of his superior hitting ability. Coach Greer has divided his big squad into two sections. The first group consists of Ferguson, Dunleavy, Mason, Hefferman, McGowan, Donovan, Skahan, Cole, Glascock, Greer, McCann, Robinson, Keenan, Dinefield, Fitzpatrick, McHugh, Burns and Hannigan.

Barber, of Northeast High School, proved in the red and black nine's game with Perkiomen Seminary that he had almost perfect control and promised to develop into one of the leading pitchers in local scholastic ranks. He not only shut out the Perkiomen batsmen, but let them down with but five hits, striking out the same number of the opposition.

The Navy baseball team is again being greatly strengthened by Calhoun at second base. He is a Southern High School alumnus and played at the same school for the local school. Last year was Calhoun's first season out for the Annapolis nine and he made good in his endeavor to play the keystone bag.

West Philadelphia High School's crew candidates will have been working out daily on the Schuylkill river at the same time with Central High School and Northeast High School, are being given the coaching services of Jack, last year's coxswain. He is holding down the same position this year on the Penn fresh eight.

Crane and McCarthy have been displaying better form than other pitching candidates out for Villanova Prep's team, and Coach Ward probably will decide on the mentioned boys to shoulder the burden of the work.

Coach Aker, of West Philadelphia High School, believes he has a $100,000 second in Allen, first base; Bonno, second base; Captain Roat, shortstop, and Bierman, third base. The quartet has been exhibiting lightning work in covering their respective positions. Abrams is in the best of the pitching material.

JAY GOULD HAS THE HABIT; CRANE EASY FOR CHAMP

Lakewood Player Gains Tennis Title for Tenth Year.

BOSTON, April 12.—Jay Gould, of Lakewood, Pennsylvania, national court tennis champion for another year the 10th in succession that he has had this honor. In the challenge match for the title yesterday he defeated Joshua Crane, of this city, the scores being 2-1, 2-1, 2-1. It was an old story for Crane to be beaten by Gould, for he has been the challenger eight times in the last 10 years, and in no one of the matches has he been able to take the championship from the younger man. Crane played well in the tournament at the Tennis and Racquet Club, and when asked through with flying colors it caused no surprise, as he is beyond any question the second best player in the country. Against the champion he had little chance in the challenge match, although in his game was excellent. Gould was at top form, and after he got started in the first set the gallery realized that the match would soon be over. Gould made his opponent a tangle in the second set, but he was not able to win the set by Gould, whose shots at the opening were accurate and his varied service hard to return.

COLUMBIA DREAMS PENN TANK CLASH

Efforts to Postpone Final Meet Futile—Vollmer Will Be Out of Contest.

Columbia has little hope of winning its swimming meet with Pennsylvania. This contest is expected to settle the triple tie that existed and made necessary three other contests. This dispatch comes from New York.

All efforts on the part of Columbia to obtain a postponement of the swimming meet with Pennsylvania have so far proved unsuccessful, and it appears that the clash will occur on April 17, the date originally scheduled. This will prevent Herbert Vollmer representing the New York Athletic Club in the national championships.

Vollmer would be counted upon by his colleagues to defeat the Philadelphians. They expect him, in fact, not only to capture the three individual swims, but to gain sufficiently in the relay races to carry his teammates to victory.

This seems like an enormous task to place on the shoulders of a single contestant, but Vollmer gave evidence of his ability to perform it a few days ago, when he won three first prizes against the speedy Yale swimmers and failed to score in the team event by a mere touch.

THIRTY PENN TRACK MEN ENTER PRINCETON MEET

Open Handicap Affair Will Surpass Event of Last Year.

PRINCETON, April 12.—Princeton's second annual open handicap track meet on Saturday, April 17, promises to surpass the good showing last year, according to the present outlook. The University of Pennsylvania has notified the management that it will send a team of 30 men, while Penn State has also given notice that it will send a strong aggregation of athletes. The Bronx Church House intends to enter a man in each event.

A handsome cup has been offered, in addition to the gold, silver and bronze medals which will be awarded to the winners of first, second and third prizes respectively. The cup will be for annual competition, being given to that club which makes the highest team score each year, and will be awarded permanently to the club that wins it three years.
